Chemistry

ABOUT THE TUTOR

I recently retired after 32 years of secondary teaching in the public school system. Although my certification is in Special Education, I have spent the majority of this time in general education classes (all core areas) working with both the teachers and the students. In my role as Science and Math Consultant, chemistry was my favorite course. My goal has always been to make complex or challenging concepts simple and accessible to all students. Although technically retired, I am still very active in the education field. I have previously taught chemistry in a homeschool setting and am currently tutoring multiple students in 5th-12th grade, primarily in math and science. I am also an adjunct professor at Grand Valley State University.

After being unexpectedly widowed several years ago, I am happily remarried. I have a son and three stepchildren, ages 20-27. My husband and I enjoy boating, hiking with our dog, and traveling. I am an avid reader and crafter in my spare time.

I believe that my passion for teaching teenagers is a gift from God, and I am called to use it in many ways. I look forward to sharing my excitement about chemistry in a rigorous, yet enjoyable way!
